

Newsletter | April 2023

During the Victam LatAm event in October 2023, Wageningen University supported by the VICTAM Foundation will host the 3rd International Feed Technology Congress (IFTC 2023) in São Paulo, Brazil.

On behalf of the scientific, advisory and organization committee of the Congress, we invite students, professors, researchers and professionals from industry to participate to the IFTC program. The aim is that IFTC 2023 will bring together people from research institutions and from industry to exchange knowledge and expertise, to share technical and scientific developments in the fields of animal feed technology and to discuss the latest results. The goal is to provide a vehicle to enhance cooperation between industry and research institutions and to allow creation of innovative projects and collaborations. The congress will see thematic presentations by international keynote speakers as well as oral and poster presentations.

Themes of the congress

- 1- Issues related to animal nutrition and feed technology in Europe
- 2- Recent developments in pig and poultry nutrition
- 3- Major challenges for the South American dairy cattle industry
- 4- Mycotoxin control and feed safety in South America: state of the art

Website IFTC 2023

Currently under construction. Will be available with all necessary information soon.

